More information requested on proposal

More information is being requested by Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council before it approves the creation of a day care centre in the general commercial zone in Minden.

The council approval for the project was sought at the November 12 meeting by the operator of the service, Mrs. Upton of Minden. She has proposed the service by established in the home and adjacent property owned by Ron Gambell at the corner of North Water Street and Bobcaygeon Road. The application has been brought to the council's attention for the past couple of meetings.

Council requested that the operator present a formal application from the property owner to have the area zoned for a day care service. The council also requested that the applicant clarify the status of the operation with the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Under provincial regulations she cannot obtain provincial approval for the operation without the approval of the local municipality. Mrs. Upton told the council that the province was willing to assist with the necessary renovations to the home and property to make it suitable for a day care centre. The province could also provide assistance for families unable to meet all or part of the tuition for the service.

Councillor Ed Pergolas said he did not believe that the government would be willing to spend money on the renovations, especially when the business intended to start operating with only a one year lease.

Pergolas said the written request from the property owner would also protect Mrs. Upton's position. "What if the renovations were carried out and the owner decided to sell the house?" the councillor asked.

Mrs. Upton told the council she was eager to get the project started. She said the day care could serve up to 40 children.

Flood plain study approval delayed

The Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council has delayed for the moment, an engineering study which would determine the extent of so called hazard land in the Minden Village area. The council had agreed to have the study carried out at a meeting in September.

However, when the group was presented with the resolution endorsing the study, the members thought it would be prudent to obtain more information on all aspects of the investigation.

In particular, the council was reluctant to pass the resolution which stated that they were aware of the Flood Protection Act. Since none of the councillors had read the act they felt it would be best to wait for more information before proceeding.

Clerk-treasurer Elinor Burk stated that the council had not rejected the proposal, but just that they wanted to be aware of the implications of endorsing the resolution first. They have asked Ministry of Natural Resources district manager, Don White to provide them with the details.

The ministry has suggested that the study be carried out to determine the area of the village which would be subject to flooding under extreme circumstances. MNR planners have indicated that they will oppose the passage of the township's new land use by-law unless the study is carried out.

The issue has created concern among village residents, especially those living close to the river or who own property in the area. The implication of the hazard land designation range from a total halt to all development, to some measures being taken to protect property against flood conditions.

Council wants to meet the public

A public meeting will be held this Friday at the Minden Community Centre to give residents of Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships an opportunity to meet with their elected officials.

The meeting has been organized by the council in order to give township residents an opportunity to air their grievance and for the council to explain its stand on a number of issues of import to the community.

The meeting is scheduled to take place between 7:30 and 9:30 in the evening. Refreshments will be available following the gathering.

House saved as garage destroyed

A fire on Friday the thirteenth, destroyed the garage located just four feet away from the home of Les Alton on Highway 121 four miles east of Minden.

Members of the Minden

Fire Department were able to prevent the flames from spreading to the house, however the heat from the blaze extensively damaged the exposed exterior of the home. Nine brigade members responded to the alarm which was received at 6:18 in the evening.

A porch attached to the side of the house was also destroyed by the flames.

The blaze destroyed a double garage, a large quantity of tools, a snowblower and other equipment. The loss was estimated at close to $4000.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an electrical short circuit.

Sean Conway, MPP for Renfrew North was the guest speaker at the Warden's banquet held Saturday at the Haliburton Legion Hall. Conway entertained the audience with humorous tales and praised the politicians for their service to the community. Retiring Warden, Murray Fearrey, right, listens intently as Conway addresses the audience.

- What was said -

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins asked the Minister of Industry and Tourism Larry Grossman in the Legislature about the status of provincial sales tax on accommodation. The tax is scheduled to be re-applied December 31. The government lifted the tax to help stimulate the tourist trade.

Eakins said the high occupancy rate in the Toronto area is not necessarily repeated in other parts of the province and the exemption provided an incentive to travel. He also pointed out that the accommodations industry would soon be setting their winter rates and would want to know if the tax would be re-applied.

The following is an extract from Hansard of that exchange which took place in the Legislature November 9.

Mr. Eakins: Mr. Speaker, my question is to the Minister of Industry and Tourism. Given that the minister has allocated some $38 million in this fiscal year under the Board of Industrial and Leadership Development program to stimulate the tourism sector in Ontario, does he plan to let the sales tax exemption on accommodation expire as of December 31, 1981, and which his government has proclaimed to have a major stimulant in this sector?

Hon. Mr. Grossman: Of course, with tourism revenues in the province up 27.7 per cent, which is far in excess of any other jurisdiction, and this government, through BILD particularly, which gives an extra $3 million in order to boost our advertising campaign through our enormously successful "Yours to Discover" campaign, we are in a position in Ontario to have perhaps the strongest tourist industry anywhere in North America, by far and away the strongest in Canada.

Against that backdrop, my colleague the Treasurer (Mr. F. S. Miller), who is, as the member knows, intimately familiar with the tourist industry, has to make certain judgements. In accordance with his budget brought down several months ago, the member knows he made that decision. Of course, the tourist industry has had an opportunity to speak with the Treasurer, both before and after that decision, and if you wish to ask him whether he is considering reconsidering that decision, feel free to do that when he is here later this week.

Mr. Eakins: Supplementary: The minister surely has a great deal of input with the Treasurer on behalf of the tourism sector. While the minister speaks of the increase in tourism of some 27 per cent, he is also aware that Tourism Ontario, in their paper to the federal government, have indicated this may not happen next year because that 27 per cent takes into account many one-day visits and two-day visits of people coming across the border to get gasoline. He is very much aware of that.

But my question to the minister, is he going to recommend that the sales tax exemption be carried on after December 31? Yes or no?

Interjections.

Mr. Eakins: What is the minister's recommendation?

Hon. Mr. Grossman: May I say on this side of the House we have one solid consistent view on these things, and I can assure the member that I support the Treasurer in his moves in this industry as well as any industry, and the Treasurer's track record in terms of helping to stimulate industry in this province speaks for itself, an excellent track record, which I continue to support.

I would also say to the member that I do not know of too many people who come to buy gas and stay for two days just to buy gas. So unless anybody thinks those figures are inflated, they really are not. I stand with my colleagues, as always.

Council considers computer payroll

The payroll of the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden could be handled by a computer in Toronto if the council hires the services of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. A representative of the bank explained the details of the systems to the councillors at the November 12 meeting.

Under the system, the township would provide the bank with the number of hours worked by each employee in a two week work period and the computer would calculate the gross pay, the deductions which are applicable and issue a cheque reflecting this amount. The payment could be made by cheque or the funds could be deposited directly into the account of the employee in any bank.

The system is used by large employers in many areas. The Haliburton County Board of Education utilizes a similar system for paying its employees.

If the system were used by the township, it would relieve the office staff of the responsibility for computing the payroll every two weeks.

The bank operated system would also provide the township with a break-down based on a number of criteria including job costing, deductions and benefits. A report would be prepared with each pay period and at the end of the year when T-4 forms for income tax purposes are required, that also could be handled by the computer.

According to the CIBC spokesperson, Miss Wallace, if the municipality hired the bank to handle the payroll it would cost a minimum of $38 per pay period, or 82¢ per hourly rated employee per pay period and 68¢ per salaried employee per pay period. This would amount to a minimum yearly charge of $1000 to the township for the service.

Street named

The street which runs in front of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township offices has been named.

The thoroughfare, which connects Milne and St. Germaine streets will now be known as Pritchards' Drive. The street was previously unnamed.

The approval of the name occurred during the November 12 meeting of the council.

Reeve Lloyd Walker said the name was chosen in recognition of the lands donated to the township by the Pritchard family for public use. Doug Pritchard is the township's Deputy-Reeve.

The colour party marches into position as citizens of the community gather at the Minden war memorial to honour those who died during the great wars. Reverend George Elliott, right, conducted the service of remembrance.

New policy will not apply to sewer, water accounts

The new policy adopted by the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council with regard to tax payments does not apply to amounts due on sewer and water charges. That was the consensus of a November 12 meeting of the council.

Under the policy adopted last month, the municipality will allow a five day grace period for tax payments due at the end of a month. The policy was adopted to enable residents to claim the interest the money might draw at the bank if the funds were held until the end of the month.

This policy would appear to not apply to water and sewer account payments.

The council will also consider the problem of overdue water and sewer accounts from tenants in the village. While it is generally accepted that the tenant is responsible as the consumer of the service for the charges, if the amounts are left unpaid, the owner of the property in question can be held responsible for the unpaid balance. The amount is added to the tax bill at the end of the year.

The councillors considered a number of policies to ensure that these accounts are not allowed to grow. One suggestion would have the property owner maintain the responsibility for the water and sewer at all times.

A second suggestion was to notify the owners when the accounts fell into arrears. According to the township clerk, Elinor Burke, the municipality does not notify the owner of the property until a long time after the accounts have been outstanding. It was pointed out that by the time the owner realises what the situation is, the tenant could have left the community and the landlord is left holding the bill.

It was suggested that since the owner of the property is ultimately responsible for the sewer and water charges assessed against a building, he should be the one to receive the bill and pass on the costs to the tenant.

No policy was struck at the meeting, however members of council were asked to consider the matter in hopes that a policy could be established in the near future.

Council says 'Thank you'

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council paid tribute to Amos Brubacher at the November 12 meeting. Mr. Brubacher had been asked to attend the council meeting so the municipality could officially express their appreciation to the resident of the past 25 years.

Mr. Brubacher left the community earlier this week and has taken up residence in Cambridge.

Reeve Lloyd Walker, speaking on behalf of the council, said the municipality was sorry to see Mr. Brubacher leave. "You have done a great job around the town," the reeve commented.

In response, Mr. Brubacher suggested that perhaps it was, "better to walk out of a community than be carried out." He noted that in the cause of beautification in the municipality, "there is still lots to be done. Hopefully someone will take over and continue with the job," he commented.

Mr. Brubacher suggested that the area behind the new library could be turned into a natural and floral garden which could become a tourist attraction for the community. He also suggested that the township council should ensure that lots which are vacant should not be allowed to become overgrown with brush. "Keep it down," the avid gardener advised.

Reeve Walker invited Mr. Brubacher to return to the municipality many times in the future. "You're always welcome here," he commented.

Good, bad indifferent

The Council of Anson, Hindon and Minden is to be congratulated in planning an open forum for meeting the public. The meeting is scheduled for Friday evening.

It is unfortunate that citizens of the municipality feel intimidated enough not to attend regular council meeting to express their concerns. These twice-a-month meetings offer an opportunity for citizens to speak out on matters that concern them. A few have taken advantage of the meetings to do so, but it appears there are many others who cannot or will not attend these sessions.

Hopefully, those who are reluctant to attend regular meetings will find the more relaxed atmosphere of the Friday gathering more conducive to expressing what's on their minds. The council has dealt with a large number of matters since being elected almost a year ago. Some of their accomplishments deserve praise, some need clarification and some deserve a critical review.

The council is offering the constituents an opportunity to comment on the job done so far. We hope Anson, Hindon and Minden taxpayers will take advantage of the Friday meeting to do just that.

Province pursues three year term

It would appear from legislation introduced in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday, that the government intends to go ahead with the plan to extend the municipal election term to three years from the present two.

The reasoning behind the action eludes us. We have heard no groundswell (or even murmurs) of support for the idea from the population or, indeed, the politicians who now hold office. If there is a lobby pushing for the change, they are certainly going about their work quietly.

In Haliburton County it was almost the unanimous opinion of reeves and deputy-reeves that the change would produce little of value. Most felt the two year term was adequate to see important projects through to completion, and laying plans for the municipality's future.

The argument that a less frequent election schedule will save money, while at first appealing, lacks in sound judgement. While a three year term may save in election expenses, think how much more could be saved with a four year term, or five years, or ten, or no elections whatsoever. The citizens of a democracy should never quibble over the cost of holding an election.

The present provincial government has recently shown disdain for the opinions of the public it is meant to serve. This latest move is just another in that series.

Curly bark

Admiral treasury looted

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

This week I addressed the Resources Committee on the state of Ontario's forest industry. Especially the people of Haliburton, and others interested in our forests, will be interested in these comments. Perhaps in the next week I shall give you an outline as I see it.

Canadian Admiral Corporation

Hundreds of people have lost their jobs due to the closure of the Canadian Admiral Corporation, and Liberal finance critic David Peterson (London Centre) has charged that the new owners of the corporation stripped the company's treasury of $25 million soon after they bought the firm in 1979. He stated that the main cause of the corporation's financial problems was the decision by its parent company, York Lambton Inc. of Montreal, to pay itself $25 million in dividends two months after it purchased 99.71 per cent of the shares of Canadian Admiral for $34 million.

In outlining the financial transactions concerned, he stated that in its last financial statement prior to the August 1979 purchase, Canadian Admiral had $258 million in sales, $35.9 million in the bank, and $6 million in debts. By the end of 1979, Admiral's working capital was down to $20 million and its long-term debt up to $16.6 million. By the end of 1980, Canadian Admiral had an operating deficit of more than $13 million, and its debt load had forced the company's collapse.

Referring to the $88.10 per share dividend paid on October 1st, 1979, as "theft out of the company treasury", he asked the Minister of Industry what action the government was going to take.

Pulp and paper companies

Over the next three years, some 900 workers are expected to be laid off by three pulp and paper companies which only last year received multi-million-dollar grants from the provincial government. In all, nine grants were given to paper companies - grants which the government defends, although layoffs are now projected at Abitibi-Price Inc. in Iroquois Falls, Ontario Paper in Thorold and Boise Cascade Ltd. in Kenora. Ontario Liberal Leader Stuart Smith has called the grants a total waste of money.

Lake Erie hydro cable

A senior Ontario Hydro official has denied allegations that a proposed $800 million cable system under Lake Erie will lead to a worsening of this province's acid rain problems. According to him, the proposed long-

Living in a city has many joys, but many drawbacks as well. I was reminded of one of these disadvantages the other night - when a long drive through the country was interrupted by a spectacular display of aurora borealis, or northern lights. In the city, the dancing lights of the night sky are lost amongst the glare and the haze.

Often the northern lights are little more than an indistinct glow, but this display was much more spectacular. A curtain of pale green rays reached from low in the northern sky up to the zenith, slowly weaving and dancing their pattern of light. At their top, a reddish glow crowned their glory, blurring the stars beyond. I'm sure I was not the only motorist to simply pull over and watch until the show began to fade.

My show was actually about a hundred miles up, in the lower of the two zones where aurora borealis occurs. Its intensity must have been related to a recent increase in sunspot activity, for the northern lights are the result of bombardment of the ionized gases of the upper atmosphere by electrically-charged particles from these solar storms. Like the gases in neon bulbs, the scattered nitrogen and oxygen molecules are excited to the point where they radiate light.

Northern lights, as the name implies, are most common in a broad arctic belt ringing the Earth between 60 and 70 degrees latitude. On Hudson's Bay or Alaska or Iceland, you might expect northern lights two nights out of three. In the southern hemisphere, the same pattern rings the south pole, with the radiance producing a glow known as aurora australis.

Although we can explain why and how the aurora occurs, there is still one question which mystifies science. Many observers swear that when the lights are at their peak, they can hear a swishing or crackling sound. Scientists are doubtful that the aurora could produce the noises, since the thin air at that height could not carry sound waves easily. Until an explanation can be found, this part of the awesome dance of the night sky will remain a mystery.

Letters

Editor:

Your excellent report on Mr. Perley's talk to the Chamber of Commerce is much appreciated. We hope that his work in convincing the U.S. public bears fruit. However, it is unfortunate that Mr. Perley chose to comment on a phase of the acid rain problem that is beyond his field of competence. I am speaking about lake neutralization with limestone. His comments are not only incorrect scientifically, but very damaging from a public information point of view.

His first statement refers to the fact that liming does not restore a lake to its original state. In a very limited sense this is partially true when one refers to the neutralization of dead lakes. It is not true when one refers to still living lake systems.

The Swedish Report, "Acidification and Lake Liming" by R. Bernhoff which is the definitive work on the subject, states "Liming quickly returns the buffering levels of dying lakes to normal and the lake biota levels to the pre-acidification state". Further, Bernhoff states "Even totally moribund systems rebound to good health in a very short time". Fish stocks not only survive well but reproduce at increased rates when plotted against living but unneutralized systems. This conclusion is reinforced by the work done in New York State by the Cornell University.

His other point relating to metal ion levels in acidified lakes is so confused that I will try to clarify this problem. When lakes become acidified, the ore bearing rock strata surrounding the water body is leached out by the acid in the lakes. The levels of dissolved metal salts increase markedly. The most efficient killer ion is aluminum. When the lake system is neutralized with limestone (not lime) the dissolved aluminum ions form complex insoluble double metal salts and are removed from solution. The whole chemistry is very complex but as Perley is not a chemist, the writer does not

Forging a hot idea - new warmth from wood

The high cost of conventional fuels has, during the past few years, convinced many people to rely more heavily on wood for their heating needs. While the change more often than not results in reduced fuel bills, individuals have tried to heat their homes with standard open fireplaces have been disappointed. The open hearth warms the eye and mind more than it does the body.

In fact, open fireplaces have been shown to actually reduce the temperature of a home as air is sucked up the chimney in the burning process and must be replaced by cool air leaking into the house from out of doors.

The answer to this problem was the airtight stoves which now crowd and cloud the market with various sizes, varieties and features. The airtights have greatly increased wood heat efficiency but to date, other than the suggestion that doors be installed on an open fireplace, little has been done to boost the efficiency of the open hearth.

A Minden man, Jack Kinsman, feels he has a remedy which will turn a fireplace into a major source of heat for a home. He has tested his design in his own home, and a number of his friends' and neighbours' homes, and the results indicate he has hit on a hot idea.

Jack has designed an insert for existing fireplaces or a complete unit which can be installed with the building of a new fireplace, which will turn the former heat thief into a heat producer. The "Forge", as he has named his invention, relies on preheated air entering the combustion chamber and a reduced flow of air to create a more intense heat from the fire. Both the insert and complete unit operate on the same principle.

Using seven gauge steel, Jack has designed a traditional fire box with an opening at the top to take smoke and gases up the chimney. However, he has added a number of new features to this design which give it its increased efficiency.

A damper or sliding door has been installed across the top of the fire box. This damper can control the size of opening leading to the chimney. (A collar connects the firebox directly to the chimney) Wide open, the fireplace is like any other. However, with the damper partially closed the intensity of the heat in the firebox increases as the wood burns hotter. Less heat is allowed to escape up the chimney.

A pair of rectangular steel pipes have been welded to the back of the firebox. These lead to the chimney and with the damper fully closed provide the only exit for smoke and gases. The openings for these pipes are approximately one-third of the distance above the floor of the firebox. This means that the heat which rises to the top of the firebox is trapped there rather than swept up the chimney. Exhaust and smoke must be drawn into these ports over the burning wood, creating the opportunity for more complete combustion.

Jack Kinsman adjusts the damper on his home designed Forge fireplace. He tested the unit in his home last year and found that he burned less wood, received more heat and was left with little creosote even though the fire was fed green wood.

The reduced flue opening cannot be operated without doors on the face of the fireplace. If the fireplace was open at the front the large amount of air entering the firebox could not escape through the reduced flue and the result would be a smoke filled room. Therefore doors, either glass or solid steel are needed to seal the fire box area.

However, the fire will still need an input of air equal to the volume of air which is escaping through the reduced flue vents at the back of the firebox. This input is provided by a second pair of vents which are welded to the back wall and top of the firebox. These vents, one on each side, draw cool air in from the lower back, channel it through the tubes over the top of the firebox and allow the air to enter near the top front of the combustion area. Since these tubes are attached to the wall of the firebox, and the air is forced to travel a relatively long distance before becoming part of the combustion process, it is preheated, before it enters the firebox. Preheating the air is an important factor since hot air assists the combustion process and helps to increase the efficiency of the unit.

The entire firebox is encased in a second heavy gauge steel jacket with air vents top and bottom. As the walls of the firebox become hot, the heat is transferred to the air in the cavity and from there carried out into the room and home. Jack suggests that the outlet could be connected to the home's heating duct work, but notes that proper safety precautions must be taken to ensure the heating system is designed to handle temperatures that at times could reach as high as 400 or 500 degrees.

Since the design creates a much hotter fire, the combustion is more complete. According to Jack, he experimented with green wood last winter. He noted that after a complete season of burning, only a small amount of creosote was found in the chimney. The Kinsmans used only ten face cords to heat their home last year, a factor Jack attributes to his new design.

He said the fire burns hotter and slower which means the fire will usually last through the night with the house still being warm in the morning.

His designs use Corning hearth window glass, a special heavy duty glass designed for fireplaces. Jack tried a number of other brands, but because of the high temperature of the fire with the damper closed, he decided to use the Corning brand. He found that others could not withstand the high temperatures which the Forge developed. The glass costs $70 a pane.

The glass doors enable the fire to be seen, an important aspect of any fireplace. Where the esthetics are not important, steel doors can be installed instead.

Jack Kinsman believes in his design. "I'm a 'Doubting Thomas'," he comments. "I'm the sort of person who doesn't believe something until it is proven to him. I've lived and worked with this design for the past few years, using it in my own home during last winter and I know it works. Now I feel I can put it on the market."

Design could lead to new local industry

A fireplace design which will coax a lot more BTUs out of wood could lead to the creation of a small light industry for the Minden area.

That is the vision of Jack Kinsman, the designer and builder of The Forge fireplace insert.

Jack has always enjoyed toying with new ideas. He is a licensed carpenter and plumber and this background has helped him seek out new and more efficient ways to do things. Several years ago he and his partner Warren Snyder of Oakville designed a solar collector tube, which had features which were a major improvement over those already on the market. The design has been in production for a number of years with a company in Fort Erie manufacturing the product.

The Forge idea started about three years ago. The original design has undergone some changes, but last year Jack was able to test the Forge in his own home.

The Forge design has been awarded a patent and the name has been registered as a trademark.

The Forge has already been sold to a number of friends and neighbours and several orders for custom made fireplaces are already on the books. If the idea catches on,

Jack predicts a small factory for producing the units could be located in the Minden area.

He points out that the production of the units is relatively simple. Using sheets of seven gauge steel welding equipment and related tools he can turn out a unit in two days. He predicted that a staff of three or four could turn out enough Forge units to meet the demand.

The insert currently sells for around $600 while a custom made fireplace is approximately $1000.

"The raw material needed to construct the Forge consists mainly of sheets of steel, the hardware and glass for the doors. It is relatively simple to have these items transported here and just as simple to send the finished units out. Little packing is needed and the glass doors could be placed inside the units for safe-keeping," Jack pointed out.

Jack sees the increasing number of energy efficient homes as an important market for the Forge. He says many of the new homes and townhouses being built in the urban areas have one or more fireplaces. These could be fitted with the new designs Jack suggests.

While the future for the new design may be bright, for the moment Forge manufacturing is still a one-man process.

Jack has started to advertise the idea to test the interest in it and is actively seeking distributors to handle the product.

If his predictions hold out, Minden could become the home of an important new innovation in heating with wood.

Jack Kinsman closes a seam along the top of a fireplace insert with the welding torch. He hopes to be able to manufacture the units in the Minden area for distribution to markets across Canada.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

Haliburton Highlands

One of the major tasks facing those of us that are concerned with the acid rain problem is to make Americans aware of the issue. Not that our own country, and province are without blame of course, but the awareness level here has reached a point where there is an air of confidence that our governments will begin to face the issue with more stringent legislation.

In the U.S. however, few Americans know what acid rain is, and the polluters are launching high powered publicity campaigns to counteract what little publicity the problem has received. Michael Perley's Canadian Coalition on acid rain is deeply involved in the job of spreading the word south of the border.

One of the most significant breakthroughs in presenting evidence is the November issue of National Geographic, a highly respected magazine published by the National Geographic Society in Washington, D.C. This publication has devoted 30 pages to acid rain, its causes, effects, and possible cures. This coverage should go a very long way to educating some of the people down there.

Small weekly newspapers are now picking up the story and the following comments were made in a Minnesota weekly by editor Bob Cory in regard to the effect of their pollution in our environment:

"For Canada, the issue is not debatable. Canada faces not only the predictable loss of a vital tourist industry and a thriving commercial fishery but also the probable uprooting and migration of a native population scattered over remote areas and living at a subsistence level in which fish is an essential ingredient. Loss of aquatic life in the lakes could trigger a mass movement to the urban areas of Canada, possibly across the border into the United States, by people without skills whose sole hope of survival probably would lie in going on the welfare rolls.

"So far, the Canadians have couched their protests in diplomatic language, and there has been no violence. Essentially, the transmission of a lethal substance across international borders is an act of violence, whether it is fired in a missile or released as an airborne gas. As destruction of Canadian lakes and streams increases, the public will focus more sharply on the outcome of that violence, and, if history holds any lessons, violence may beget counter-violence.

"Those few voices in the United States who advocate an immediate clean up of smokestack emissions are being met with the complaint that 'the cost would be too great'. Has anyone attempted to assess the cost of turning Canada from a friend into a bitter enemy?"

Our Chamber again represents district at O.C.C. Dennis Casey, who just returned to the Chamber Board of Directors at this year's annual meeting, hasn't wasted any time getting deeply involved once again. He submitted his name for nomination and was subsequently elected to the Board of Directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce representing division 21. He will be representing not only Haliburton but Campbellford, Hastings, Cobourg, Lakefield, Millbrook and Peterborough on that body.

John Hogg has represented the division for the past two years and Dennis Casey also served a year on the Ontario Chamber Board when he was president of our own Chamber. Both John and Dennis have accepted this responsibility at a considerable cost in both time and out of pocket expenses and they certainly deserve our appreciation for seeing that we are properly represented.

Congratulations to these innkeepers

Innkeepers Jim and Liz Orr of Sir Sam's Inn proudly announced the birth of their first child last week, a boy weighing in at 8 lbs. 4 ozs. and Jim assures us that he certainly looks like a future innkeeper.

Innkeepers George & Elaine Schmid (nee Boyce) of the Beaconbrook Motor Hotel were married this weekend in George's hometown of Portland, Ontario and are presently honeymooning in our eastern provinces. We are advised that according to Swiss custom the fact that Elaine was 7 minutes late for her wedding ceremony means that they will eventually be blessed with 7 little innkeepers. They are going to need to expand.

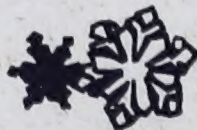

Innkeepers Jean Jennings and Lorraine are certainly smiling now, having finally been granted their licence under the L.C.B.O. at Gelert Gardens. Their reputation for fine food is already in evidence and now that they are fully licenced they can provide you with all the "trimmings" to go with your meal.

Our best wishes to all of the above.

Think spring!

As hard as that may be to do, as we look forward in anticipation of things happening this winter, we ask that for a few moments you think about spring. The publicity provided for us by the Ministry of Industry and Tourism on coming events is prepared well in advance and an activities that are planned for spring must be submitted by the end of this month.

Please call our office, 286-1760 and advise us of any that you may be involved in now - then you may go back to planning for winter.

A bad luck budget

- by Bill Scott, M.P. -

My personal view of the budget tabled last Thursday by the federal government is that it should have been held over until the next day, Friday the 13th, because it spells bad luck for the Canadian economy, and bad news for all Canadians.

This budget is calculated to drive us straight into an economic recession, at a time when we should be budgeting to deal with serious economic problems already faced by home-owners, farmers, businesspeople and others.

At the time the budget was being drafted, 100,000 Canadian families faced foreclosure on their homes because they could not afford the massive increases in mortgage payments on renewal. An average increase in mortgage payments was about 50 per cent per month, while some were as high as 100 per cent.

Housing minister Paul Cosgrove told these people to hang on until budget time, giving a veiled promise that there would be relief for them in the budget. The budget does not extend any real relief to any of them.

What the government offers is deferred interest payments for those home-owners who pay 30 per cent or more of their income on mortgage payments. These people represent only a fraction of the total number of homeowners who hoped for relief in the budget.

The interest deferral plan will only be a short-term, band-aid type of assistance for those who take advantage of it, as the interest payments will accumulate into a massive new debt that will have to be paid at some future date.

At budget time there was an increase of 133 per cent in farm bankruptcies over the first nine months of 1979, and business bankruptcies for the first nine months of 1981 were 16 per cent higher than for the same period in 1980.

For farmers, the budget lowers the Farm Credit Corporation interest rate to eleven and three quarters per cent, but only added 50 million dollars to the FCC's budget. At the same time, by way of comparison, the government allotted itself 225 million dollars in the coming year for advertising. Only those farmers who are on the brink of financial ruin can take advantage of the lower FCC interest rate.

The Small Business Development Bond program has been extended for another year, but here again the program will favour businesses that are facing bankruptcy. It should be open to all businesses and farmers.

I would have liked to see more substantial cuts in personal income taxes, to stimulate consumer purchases and revitalize our stagnating business community. While some minor tax concessions are in the budget, the government will still realize about one-and-a-half billion dollars in new tax revenues in the coming year.

There are presently about 950,000 Canadians unemployed, and almost every day we read of more plant closings, and more people facing temporary or permanent layoff. While I would have liked to see an expansionary budget, what we have instead is a regressive budget, as though the government is bracing us for a recession.

The decline in the Bank of Canada rate by almost 1 1/2 per cent, on the same day the budget came down, was too much of a coincidence. It indicates that either the Bank of Canada governor, or the government, was wrong in keeping interest rates high to fight inflation. We do know, though, that someone was wrong, because interest rates are coming down and inflation continues to climb. It was a bad policy, and it hurt a lot of people.

Man charged

A charge of wilful damage has been laid against a 37-year old man following an incident Sunday at the Frost Centre near Dorset.

According to the police, during the night of November 15 a vehicle was driven onto the Frost Centre property and caused damages estimated at $3000. Included in the damage was several sets of signs which were leveled by the vehicle.

Charged is 37 year old Ray Woodhead.

Constable Barry Connelly of the Minden detachment investigated the incident.

Week's activities

Personnel at the Minden detachment investigated the following occurrences during the past week: nine motor vehicle collisions (no injuries); 71 general occurrences including 10 break and enter; four lost and found; one false pretences; five thefts; one trespassing complaint; two frauds; two wilful damage incidents; one missing person; one liquor infraction; two compassionate messages delivered; two mischief incidents; and one disturbing the peace.

intend to give him a series of free chemistry lectures to bring him up to date.

Instead I will quote again from the report of the National Research Council of Canada's "Acidification in the Canadian Aquatic Environment" page 190. There is shown a chart indicating clearly that as Ph in a lake system rises, metal ion content in the system falls. I would also refer Perley to the extensive bibliography quoted in this last report. If he has the time, I believe he should read at least 20 of the more definitive papers before he again disgraces himself by making incorrect and damaging statements about a very complex problem for which he has no technical or theoretical knowledge.

term power exports to General Public Utilities of Parsippany, New Jersey, will have no impact upon a Hydro program to reduce sulphuric acid emissions.

Predictions that increased power exports would mean heavier use of coal-fired generating stations and therefore more acid rain were made in the Legislature by Liberal Leader Stuart Smith, who has called upon the government to subject the Hydro project to a full environmental assessment hearing.

He believes the scheme would damage the credibility of Canada's campaign to reduce sulphur emissions in the United States, and stated that one problem is the provincial government's dislike and distrust of its own environmental legislation. "They all want to get around their own environmental laws", he said.

NDP candidates to attend meeting

Victoria-Haliburton New Democrats will be holding their annual meeting December 10 in Lindsay.

It will be the annual meeting for both the federal and provincial riding associations.

Speaking at the gathering will be the three candidates for the leadership of the Ontario New Democratic Party, Jim Foulds and Richard Johnson, both MPPs and Bob Rae MP.

The meeting will include reports, election of officers and the election of delegates to the provincial leadership convention planned for early February in Toronto.

The meeting will be held at the Lindsay Legion, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Incorporation considered for family farms

— Agricultural Report —

Incorporating a family farm is a reasonable move to consider when a farm has a consistent net income of $20,000 or more each year.

This was one of the key points discussed at the annual seminar on Farm Taxes and Business Organization, conducted by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food Friday in Oshawa.

Sixty lawyers and accountants and Agricultural Office staff from across the area attended the seminar. In attendance from the Lindsay area were accountants - Wayne Alldred, Dale Drake, Dave Gorskie and Jack Rathwell, and lawyers - William Evans, Rodney Farn, Edward Starr, and Carm Hamilton and Mark Leahy from the Lindsay Agricultural Office.

This year's seminar features an in-depth look at farm corporations. There are a number of advantages as well as disadvantages to incorporating a family farm.

The tax savings possible are one of the advantages many people are aware of. However, the discussion showed that if tax savings are the only advantage to a farmer then they should not become incorporated. Incorporation establishes a perpetual business, thus, the long-term plans of both the parents and children on a farm must be seriously considered before deciding to incorporate.

Corporal Chris Pritchard of Minden was one of 10,000 troops taking part in a recent Armed Forces exercise at Gagetown, New Brunswick. Corporal Pritchard serves with the 427 Squadron at Camp Petawawa, Ontario, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Pritchard of Minden.

Friday 13th lucky day for Huskies

Friday the thirteenth proved to be a lucky day for the Haliburton Huskies. Not only did they fly in the face of black cats and omens of bad luck, they did it with the dreaded number 13. The Huskies downed Bracebridge, on their home turf, 13-4 last Friday.

Darrin MacInnes and Ron Yake led the way for the Huskies picking up a hat trick each. In both cases, one of the goals was unassisted. The scoring: in the first period: Tim Davies from Ed Davis and Darrin MacInnes; Ron Yake unassisted; Dave Nicholls from Yake and Corey Walker; Yake from Nicholls. No scoring for Bracebridge.

In the second period: MacInnes from Davis and Duff Mitchell; Jim Lee from Davies. A club spokesman reported that netminder Colin Newell turned in a spectacular game, particularly during the second period when the Bracebridge Bears were able to take advantage of Husky penalties to pepper the net. He turned aside many shots, allowing only three to score.

The final period: MacInnes from Davis and Davies; Walker from Nicholls and Yake; MacInnes unassisted; Gary Harrison from Shaun Chapman and Kevin Shapiera; Yake from Walker; Davis from Davies; and Chapman from Shapiera and Harrison. Bracebridge managed a single goal in the third period.

The Huskies were credited with 55 shots on goal while Bracebridge had 44.

Sunday game

Back on home ice Sunday afternoon, the Huskies were able to save a close one as Ron Yake clicked at the 19:36 mark of the final frame to break a 5-5 tie with the Midland Centenials. It was a see-saw battle throughout the contest with both teams having excellent opportunities to score and taking advantage of them.

Rob Abbs opened the scoring for the Huskies in the first period, scoring on a pass from Ron Yake. Midland evened the score, but with less than a minute left in the period, Duff Mitchell scored on a one-on-one situation following a break-away from his own end of the ice.

Corey Walker stretched the Husky lead to two in the second frame with assists going to Dave Nicholls and Mitchell. Midland narrowed that margin later in the contest, however Tim Davies was able to re-establish it with a goal from Yake and Nicholls.

Midland scored first in the final frame and then Nicholls connected on a pass from Yake and Walker. However, the visitors scored two quick goals to tie the game.

The Ron Yake go-ahead goal came at the 19:36 mark on a pass from Nicholls and Walker. Midland pulled their goalie but were unable to find the Husky net and the Haliburton team claimed the 6-5 victory.

The two wins give the Huskies a 6-6-1 record for the season.

Husky player Ron Yake is listed eighth among the league's top ten players in scoring. His 11 goals and 11 assists in 10 games gives him a total of 22 points. He is the only Husky in the top ten.

On tap for the Huskies this weekend is a Friday night game in Penetanguishene and a Saturday evening encounter at the Haliburton arena. Game time is 8:30.

If your car's out of shape you get rid of it, right? What if your body's out of shape?

PARTICIPATION

Steamrollers on top

The Steamrollers are staying in first place with a commanding 95 1/2 points. Second place is still held by the Bloopers with 83 points and the Troopers remain in third place with 79 points. Fourth place was captured by the Road Runners with 77 points putting the Misfits into fifth place with 76 1/2 points. The Dambusters are still sitting in the basement with 75 points.

High triples of 600 and over were rolled by Virna Wagg 628, Gloria Nimigon 611 and Nick Nimigon 635. Games of 200 and over were bowled by Virna Wagg 211 & 243, Ruby Mighton 213, Tom Hurtt 219, Gloria Nimigon 213 & 232, Rowland Sedgwick 202, Bessie Burk 213, Maud Coulter 214, Linda Salvatori 243 & 210, Ruby Francis 222, Nick Nimigon 214 & 268 and Loretta Henderson 215.

Eight teams are still in the running for the High-Low Doubles competition. Four teams have been eliminated after two weeks of play.

Junior C standings

The following is the Junior C standings as of November 9. These figures do not reflect the games played on the weekend or the Huskies' two recent wins:

The Minden Business Improvement Area (BIA) is seeking the services of a very jolly old soul for limited employment. The individual must like small children, and have a personality to make the Christmas season come alive for young and old. Other desirable attributes, though not absolutely necessary: eyes that sparkle, merry dimples, a cherry-like nose and a stomach that shakes like a bowl of jelly. Interested individuals are invited to contact Stu Brandon at Northland Sales, Main Street, Minden.

PUCK TALK

Novice

Robbie Ackerblade earned a hat trick and Randy Bull scored a pair to lead the Minden Novice team to a 7-2 victory over Bobcaygeon. The game was played November 9 in Bobcaygeon.

Ackerblade's three goals came in the first period and were all unassisted. Also scoring in the first frame were Randy Bull from Darren Sawyers and Sawyers from Bull. Bobcaygeon scored a single marker in the period.

Randy Bull scored again in the second period with the assist going to Hunter Obee. The second Bobcaygeon goal came in the second period.

Jay Hughes topped off the Minden effort, scoring the only goal in the third period. The assist went to David Lee.

Continuing their winning ways, the Novice team trounced Beaverton 13-0 Sunday in Beaverton. Philip Boyle was in the nets for Minden. The goal scorers are unavailable because of a mix-up in score-keeping.

Atom

The Beaverton Atoms bowed to the Minden team Saturday in a game played in Beaverton. The final score was 5-3.

Robbie Ackerblade scored twice for Minden, both goals unassisted. Joey Boyle also picked up an unassisted pair. The fifth Minden goal came from the stick of Chris Holliday-Rhodes with the assist going to Joey Boyle.

Tom Northgrave was in nets for Minden, this being his first game. The coach described the win as "a good team effort".

Bantam

The Minden Bantams were defeated November 10 by Haliburton 9-1. Daryl Ward was the goal getter for Minden with an unassisted effort. The game was played in Haliburton.

Juvenile

It was Minden 8, Ops 1 as the two teams met Friday at the Minden arena. Ivan Ingram led the Minden attack, picking up three goals.

Ivan opened the scoring with just 13 seconds having elapsed in the contest scoring on a pass from Rick Choy and Rick Beene. He repeated the feat just 13 seconds later, at the 26 second mark, this time unassisted.

Rick Beene notched the third goal for Minden, scoring at the 7:12 mark of the first period. Eldon Bull and Ivan Ingram were credited with the assists. Ingram rounded out his hat trick at 11:26, with assists going to Craig Coneybeare and Rick Beene.

In the second period, Kevin Hamilton scored from Rick Choy and Brent Moxam; and Eldon Bull notched his first from Brent Moxam and Bob Edge.

Bull scored again in the third period with Ivan Ingram picking up the assist. A goal by the visitors midway through the final period spoiled Craig Crowe's shut-out. Rounding out the evening for Minden, Rick Beene scored from Craig Coneybeare.

This was the first win in two starts for the Juveniles.

The schedule

Friday, November 20: 8:00 p.m. - Millbrook Juveniles at Minden.

Saturday, November 21: 2:00 p.m. Beaverton Novice at Minden.

Saturday, November 21: 3:00 p.m. Woodville Atoms at Minden.

Saturday, November 21: 4:00 p.m. Little Britain Pee Wees at Minden.

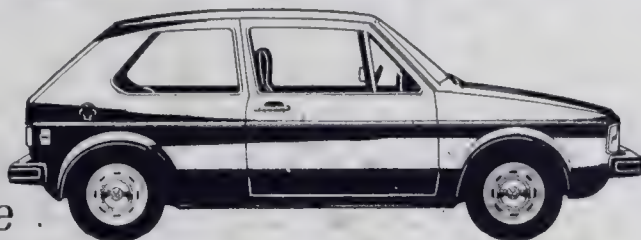

A member of the Rockcliffe Foam Blowers, Jeff Campbell, falls to his knees to protest his team's open net during a Recreational Hockey League game Monday evening at the Minden arena. The Rockcliffe team held on to their undefeated position in the league, downing Hartwick Construction 18-8. In the second game of the night, Home Hardware defeated Hall's Insurance 11 - 6.

REPORTER- EDITOR

THE TIMES currently has an opening on its staff for a reporter who, with experience, will share the responsibilities of the editor. The individual should be a self-starter, preferably, but not necessarily, with a journalism background. We require someone with an understanding of municipal government, able to use a 35 mm camera (we provide the equipment) and a general interest in the various facets of the community. The individual should have a good command of English, be able to type and have transportation. The pace of work can be hectic at times, but it is almost always interesting and rewarding for the individual willing to make the effort.

Applications will be accepted in writing only. Please indicate acceptable salary range. Write:

Did you notice the blue and white trash containers are gone for the winter. Now everyone may litter as they have been doing all this time. All this litter may end up in our river!

Did you know that the Kin Clubs have collected their National Pledge of $1300 plus other private donations. Now for their project for Cystic Fibrosis they plan to have a giant flea market on the holiday weekend in May. This is a long way down the road but they hope you will donate clothing, furniture, whatever you are discarding. Numbers for information or pick up are 286-1584 or 754-2270.

Mrs. Fred Wright left on the weekend to spend some time at Scarborough with the Ted Johnstons.

At the weekly Mini Card Party last Thursday afternoon at St. Paul's Parish Hall winners were for cribbage Joyce Hewitt and Bill Bennett; for euchre lone hands Greta Alsop (on a cut) and others Rheta Brown and Betty Harper (also on a cut). These games are for anyone so come out and meet the gang, they start at 1:30 sharp.

Hi! The weatherman has been good to us, we had some very nice days last week. Sure wish it would last, but no such luck, sorry to say.

I wish to thank Jill Hamilton, Karen Thomas, Ronni Rendall, Laura Cross, Tammy Willbee, Carole Lacey, and Brian Alexander, for helping to make the Junior Horticulture Society's coffee and donut sale, on Saturday, at the Brubacher's auction, such a great success. You were great kids.

The McKnight dance was held Saturday evening at the Community Centre and a great time was had by all.

There was a pot luck supper held at the Senior Citizens Apartments Friday, for the new Security people, John and Anne Rockory, with everyone enjoying the evening very much.

Major and Mrs. Lewis attended the Gull Lake Association annual dinner at the Boulevard Club in Toronto Thursday evening.

Tim and Betty Sharpe with their three children, Kevin, Christopher, and Kimberly from St. Catherine's, visited with Major and Mrs. Lewis for a couple of days.

Tom and Viv Miles with granddaughter Gari Lee, were up to their cottage for the weekend and visited with the Floyd Millers.

Frank Bowron has gone to live in Hyland Crest, where, I am sure he will be well looked after.

Hint of the Week
To remove polish build up

Wedding bells were ringing on Friday, November 6 when Randy Peacock took as his bride Joanne Turcotte. Randy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Young, Lochlin, and a reception followed at the Petawawa Civic Centre that evening. Randy and his bride are now residing in Petawawa and where he is with the Armed Forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robinson visited one day last week with the Jim Andersons at Bobcaygeon.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Harry Robinson and Noble Hague who passed away since last week.

Note in passing - good comments about the Food Booth at the Brubacher Sale last Saturday; this was by the Junior Horticultural Society. Glad you are doing such a good job.

The Fred Hewitts of Scarborough visited over the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Ern Hewitt.

The community sends good wishes to these people who have been in hospital, Harry McMinn, Stuart Harrison, and George Bunn, Toronto Western.

Florence and Phil Robinson spent Sunday with Grace and Ern Voycey at the latter's cottage at Redstone Lake.

Mrs. Ben Harrison of Buck Slide Road visited a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore.

We had a call telling us of the Daytime Fitness to Music which goes on Tuesdays at 1:45 and 9 a.m. and on Thursdays 9 and 10:15 a.m. and this is at St. Paul's Parish Hall; and for more information call 286-2092.

Coming events at St. Paul's Thrift Shop will open this Friday from 1:30 - 4. The Minden Red Cross are joining with the Lindsay Branch in the Annual Craft Sale on Saturday, November 21, at Lindsay Headquarters, 37 Cambridge St. North, from 10 - 3:00 if you are down that way, drop in. Then St. Paul's A.C.W. Chili Luncheon and Christmas Bazaar is Friday, December 4, from 11 - 2.

Grand weekend, we sure have had Indian Summer, take care. Cheerio until next time.

A Patch Of Old Snow

Robert Frost

There's a patch of old snow in a corner
That I should have guessed
Was a blow-away paper in the rain
Had brought to rest.

It is specked with grime as if
Small print overspread it,
The news of a day I've forgotten -

If I ever read it.

Why did the jelly roll?
Because it saw the apple turnover

What is the best key to a good dinner?

A turkey

What time is it when an elephant sits on your fence?
Time to buy a new fence

Why isn't your ear twelve inches long?
If it were, it would be a foot

Why did the elephant quit the circus?

He got tired of working for peanuts

When are cooks very cruel?
When they beat the eggs and whip the cream

Bye for now. Take it easy.
God bless till next time.

LISTINGS ALWAYS INVITED

The Rev. John Burgess took the service in the chapel Sunday night. He took his text from the 6th chapter of Luke. The healing of the man's withered hand. I thought the service was grand. Harold Thompson read the lesson and Mrs. Thompson played for singing. Much joy to us they are bringing.

We are glad that Rev. Burgess, John, says he, is going to carry on taking the service in the chapel here when the Brubachers disappear. Tuesday morning Rev. Wicks from the Minden Gospel Church held the service in the chapel. Mrs. Taylor played and Barbara Trociewicz led the singing. It's nice ladies come to help - much pleasure they are bringing.

Rev. Wicks spoke on Jesus meeting the Samaritan woman at the well. We all thought the service was just swell.

Tuesday night Fred Ballard came to play so nice for us. Fred always comes when he is called without a bit of fuss.

Then Ray Jenkins came along to visit his dear mother. He sat down and played for us just one tune after another. We want to thank you, Fred and Ray, for a perfect ending of Tuesday.

Wednesday was Remembrance Day - a quiet day up here. It gave us time to stop and think of these we loved so dear. Thursday afternoon the ladies from the Catholic church in Haliburton brought over a lovely lunch and they were a jolly bunch. They also sang some songs for us which we enjoyed.

Ray Jenkins played for us in a real sing song. We were really glad that Ray came along. The ladies are holding their Bazaar on Wednesday this week. I don't know what they have to sell - better come and seek.

Friday afternoon was sing song time. Mrs. Coburn wasn't here, we held a sing song of our own to bring a little cheer. I try to think of something more to bring to your attention. There are lots of things happening here I didn't even mention.
